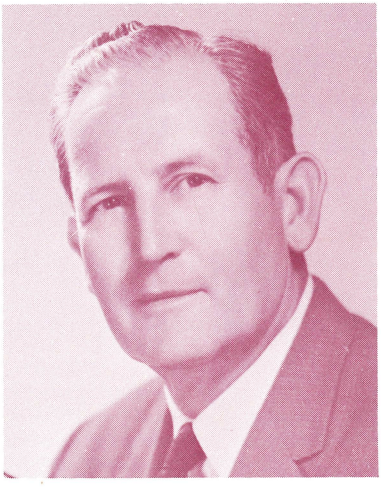
The Athletic Department of Centenary wishes to express its deep appreciation to Mr. Douglas Attaway of the Journal Publishing Company and Mr. Gordon May of the Journal Printing Company for the generous contribution of their firms in making possible the production of this annual brochure.

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT



Dr. Joe J. Mickle

We at Centenary wish to extend a warm welcome to the many fine basketball teams and newspaper and radio men who will be visiting Shreveport and our Hirsch Memorial Youth Center this winter. We are very proud of our team and our facilities and trust that you will return to Shreveport as our guest many times in the future.

We are proud too of Coach Sigler and his fine staff and the tremendous progress made in the past two years toward bringing top-flite basketball powers and national recognition to Centenary and our Ark-La-Tex area.

ABOUT THE PREXY

Dr. Mickle is a graduate of Southern Methodist University, obtaining his Master's Degree from Columbia University. He has been prominent in national and international educational work for 35 years. From 1921 until 1941, he lived in Japan where he was a professor in Kobe, Japan. Under Dr. Mickle's leadership over the past 15 years, Centenary has more than tripled in enrollment and the endowment of the college has been increased more than six fold.

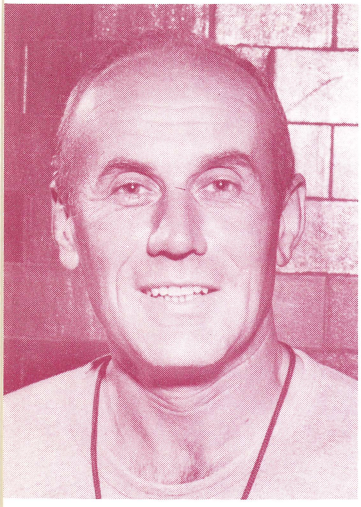
ATHLETIC STAFF



ORVIS SIGLER
Athletic Director
Basketball Coach

There's no doubt about it, Centenary's move toward national recognition and status as one of the country's major basketball independents is being led by a "big--time" coach in every facet of the game. In everything he does —from his conduct of a practice session to the way he handles the minor details of a road-trip—the "pro" stamp stands out on the Gents' coach, Orvis Sigler.

Seldom has a coach, in just two years in an area where he was virtually unknown, been able to command the respect and instill such confidence while having only break-even seasons. The job done by this soft-spoken Missourian has been remarkable.

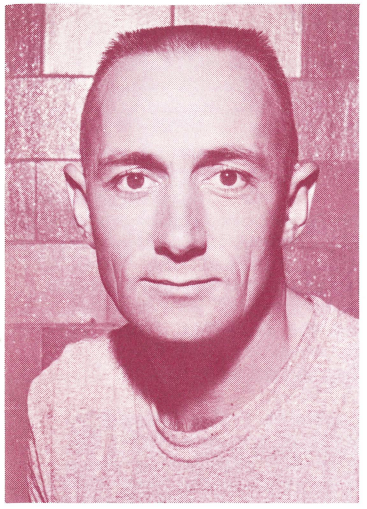
Working with talent that would have been hard-pressed to impress anybody playing quintets from schools their own size, Sigler moulded his Gents into aggregations that were able to hold their heads high in the face of schedules loaded with some of the best basketball powers in the country.

Sigler is somewhat of a rarity in the modern age of "out score 'em" basketball. He believes defense is an important part of the game and spends a lot of time teaching it to his boys. Although not adverse to an aggressive offense, Sigler places defensive ability high on his list when beating the bushes for talent.

Sigler's success in recruiting and in getting the so-called "big schools" to put Centenary on their schedule are perhaps the most fitting tributes to him as a man and his reputation in his chosen profession. How Sigler is able to talk some of the country's most sought-after high school basketball players to cast their lot with relatively tiny Centenary leaves veteran big-time ivory hunters agog. And the presence of at least fifteen major colleges or universities on the Gents' current slate where only three had been when Sigler came to Centenary, is a feat few coaches could have obtained—if indeed they had wanted to.

A Navy dive-bomber pilot in the South Pacific during World War II, Sigler prepped for the Centenary job with stints at Southwest Missouri State, Missouri Valley College, and the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. As he enters his eighth year as a college head basketball coach, Sigler's over-all career record is 79 wins against 82 losses. It must be remembered, too, that four of those years were spent at West Point where height restrictions hampered basketball success.

At home, Sigler takes basketball tips from his wife, Doris, two daughters—Susan, 15, and Sally, 10—and his 4-year-old son, Steven.



DOUG MOOTY
Assistant Basketball Coach
Baseball Coach

The man who guides the Gent freshmen in their first introduction to the Sigler system is the popular middle brother of a Gent basketball playing clan, Doug Mooty. At one time or another, all three Mooty brothers starred in Centenary colors, and older brother, Harold, preceded Orvis Sigler as head coach of the Gents before illness forced him out of the high-pressure college coaching ranks.

Mooty, who hails from Marion, Alabama, and graduated from high school there in 1947, came to Centenary as a coach in 1957 after compiling a three year coaching record of 59 wins and 39 losses at nearby Belcher and North Caddo high schools. With Coach Sigler's arrival in 1958 and the inauguration of a freshman team, Mooty was handed the assignment of tutoring the yearlings along with his duties of assisting with the varsity. His record with the frosh over the two-year period is a respectable 22-17, but even more important, Coach Sigler credits him with the development of several of the Gents' current stars—notably rebounding ace Dale Van Bibber and long-shot artist Ford King.

Mooty was a "hard-nose" player during his playing career with the Gents—which ended in 1951—and has carried it over into his coaching. The Marine Corps veteran of Korea can still get on the court with the boys and show how it's supposed to be done—the hard way.

When not giving out knowledge and hard knocks to erring Gent round-ballers, Mooty is on the receiving end at home from wife, Pat, and sons James Douglas Jr., 3, and year old Gregg.

BUSINESS MANAGER: Carl Wilkinson. Makes the necessary unpleasantries of finances for the department a bit more pleasant by his unusual qualities of efficiency and cooperation.

FACULTY ADVISOR: Dr. John Entrikin. Long-time friend of the Gents and head of the chemistry department.

TENNIS COACH: Dr. Sidney Rice. Also director of physical education at Centenary who has been with the Gents since 1956.

GOLF COACH: Morton Braswell. Alumnus who lends his talents and time to the department on a seasonal basis.

PUBLICITY DIRECTORS: Bill Baker and Jim Dawson. Sports writers for the Shreveport Times who are finishing their education this year.

STUDENT TRAINER: Pegram McCreary. Son of a Lake Charles physician and a pre-med transfer student from Tulane.

STUDENT MANAGER: Andy Teal. Probably the world's tallest manager at 6'7" who came to Centenary originally on a basketball scholarship.

OUTLOOK

If the Gents develop during the year as expected, this could be the best year Centenary has enjoyed under Coach Orvis Sigler. This year's Gent squad will be the largest numerically in Centenary history (15 men), and the resulting increase in competition for starting spots and traveling squad berths should help offset the team's biggest problem —lack of experience.

Experience. Seven lettermen return, but only one with as much as a year of regular duty behind him. The lone starter back is 6'8" senior Jackie Crawford—the Gents' leading scorer and rebounder last year—but his usefulness to the team will depend on the success of an operation during the off-season to remove the cartilage from his left knee. Last year's sophomore sensation, 6'6" Dale Van Bibber, is also back, but he sat out the last half of last season because of academic difficulties.

Height. This will be the tallest team Sigler has put on the courts at Centenary. The height span ranges from 6'9" sophomore Harry Wuennenberg to 6'0" sophomore Jerry Callens, with an overall squad height of better than 6'4". The squad's forward line candidates average over 6'6", and the backcourt boys average 6'2".

Speed. The presence of more big men and added weight make this year's Gents slower than they have been in the past two years.

Rebounding. If Crawford's knee holds up, the Gents figure to be much tougher on the backboards. A heavier, meaner, and more experienced Van Bibber is expected to carry the bulk of this load.

Defense. Sigler feels the defensive ability of the team will be about the same as last year—not what he would like, but adequate for the Gents' style of play.

Offense. The Gents will have more scoring punch in the backcourt and should improve on their 65 point-per-game average of last year.

Opponents. The toughest schedule in Centenary history. The Gents will see action against six of the nation's major independents in addition to four teams from the Southwest conference, two each from the Border and Gulf States conferences, and one each from the Southwest, Ohio Valley and Lone Star conferences.

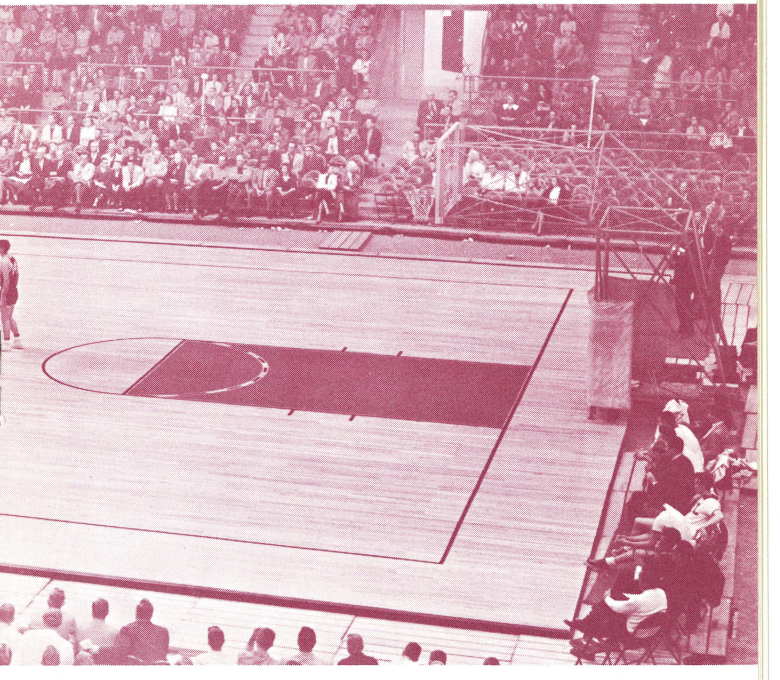
THE GENTS

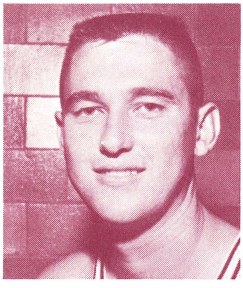


NTER (Seating 10,800 for Basketball)

THE VARSITY

JACKIE JOE CRAWFORD . . . Letterman (Captain)

Senior—Ht. 6'8"—Wt. 215—Age 23

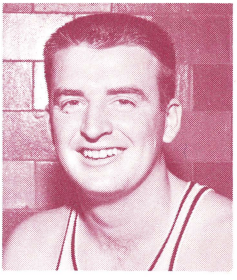


Seldom is so much desire and hard-nose determination coupled with such outstanding talent. The Gents' leading scorer and rebounder last year, Jackie amazed doctors and fans alike with his gritty determination to keep playing despite a completely severed cartilage in his left knee suffered shortly after mid-season. Suffering pain with every move on the court and constant agony off the court, the big pivotman led his mates through five more games before having to sit-out the final two games of the season. His bid to become one of Centenary's all-time greats will hinge on the success of a series of operations performed on that knee during the off-season. A completely polished veteran, Jackie feels his defensive work needs the most improvement. He faces his third year in a starting role, and if the knee holds, it could be a great year for the quiet-spoken "big-man" and the team he will lead.

HARRY GLENN COTHERN . . . . . Letterman

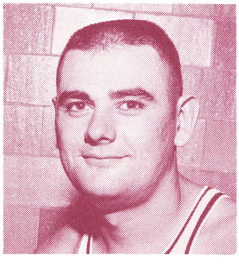
Senior—Ht. 6'2"—Wt. 195—Age 22

Generally regarded as possessing more natural talent than any member of the squad, Glenn may be hampered by excess weight picked up during the off-season. The Gents' third leading scorer and rebounder last year, this rugged backcourt veteran plays an important role in Coach Sigler's plans for a successful campaign. A scrappy floor man when he wants to be, Glenn also has a brilliant shooting touch—scoring equally well from inside or outside. The New Orleans high school product had a fabulous prep career, and a year with Kilgore Junior College before coming to Centenary. The year's familiarity with the Sigler system should leave Glenn free to display the talent that made him one of the most sought after high school basketballers in the state back in 1956.



ALVIS WAYNE DUBOSE . . . . . Letterman

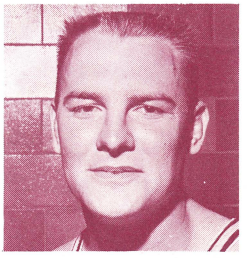
Senior—Ht. 6'6"—Wt. 210—Age 23



A little more confidence could have made this quiet-mannered Alabama native an outstanding collegiate performer. Even without it, Wayne has been invaluable to Coach Sigler the last two years as a spot relief man. He will be counted on even more this year to lend his experience and talents to tough situations. Wayne is part of the front-line depth that sends a smile across Sigler's face when he contemplates the season ahead. Possessor of a good shooting eye, Wayne hit .406 last year and once scored 50 points in a high school game—he could be one of the big surprises of the year. One thing is sure, lack of desire and hustle won't be his trouble.

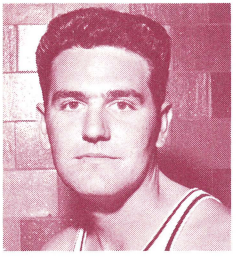
THE VARSITY

RALPH ADAMS MASON . . . . . Letterman
Senior—Ht. 6'4"—Wt. 200—Age 21



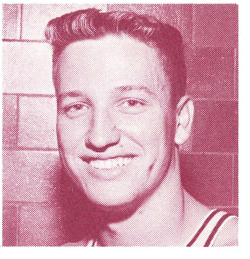
A "sixth" regular is the role played by this likeable blonde battler in Coach Sigler's campaign plans. The key man in several of last season's wins, Ralph served the Gents both as a spot starter and ace relief man for the forward wall. The Alabama high school football and basketball star is so adept at coming off the bench and giving a fine clutch performance, that Sigler feels he can use Ralph with confidence in any given situation. A lack of speed has been Ralph's block to stardom, but hustle is his middle name. "Munchy"—as his teammates call him—figures to have a big hand in any success the Gents enjoy in the '60-'61 campaign.

JOHN ANTONIO VASILOPOULOS . . . . Letterman
Senior—Ht. 6'1"—Wt. 180—Age 23



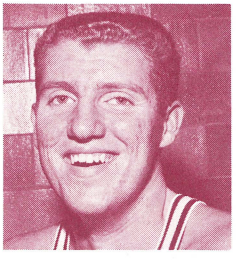
Everything points to this being a great year for the "Golden Greek." John is embarking on his fourth year under Coach Sigler's guidance — having transferred to Centenary with Sigler from West Point in '58; hampered by excess weight last year, he reported in the best physical condition of his playing career; and the experience of 23 varsity games last year should improve an already outstanding ability as a cool, calculating "quarterback" for the Gent attack. Possessor of a deadly two-handed set shot, the handsome Missourian's loss of weight is expected to increase his speed and improve his defense. Lookout for "Vas."

WILLIE FORD KING . . . . . Letterman
Junior—Ht. 6'3"—Wt. 195—Age 20



Added weight for battling under the boards, a year's experience to instill confidence under fire, and a deadly eye for the basket stands Ford on the brink of stardom as the '60-'61 season unfolds. Thrown into an unexpected starting role when the departed Larry Greene ran into academic difficulty at mid-term last year, Ford left fans gasping with his long, thrilling one handed jump and push shots. Playing in 19 of the Gents' 24 games last year, the Texan son of a famous coaching father led the Gents in field goal shooting percentage with a .449. He should become a backcourt mainstay for Coach Sigler.

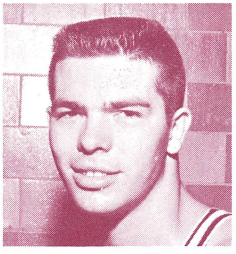
MICHAEL ALEXANDER RAMMING . . . Squadman
Junior—Ht. 6'5"—Wt. 200—Age 20



One of the finest shooters on the squad, Mike's lack of speed and aggressiveness earned him very little playing time last year. After a brilliant freshman year averaging 17.6 points per game, Mike was a disappointment to himself and the Gents in his first varsity season. He approaches the up-coming campaign with a renewed determination to shake off the shakles that hobbled him last year and regain his freshman form. If he does, the Gents forward wall could be the strongest in history. Mike says this is a "must" year for him, and the Gent coaching staff is certainly hoping he makes it a great one.

THE VARSITY

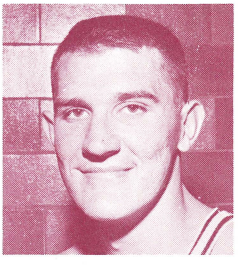
SHERMAN DALE VAN BIBBER . . . . . Letterman
Junior—Ht. 6'6"—Wt. 210—Age 20



Returning to the Gents after sitting out the second semester of action because of a scholastic technicality, Dale checked into camp with renewed determination to pick-up where he left off as Centenary's most promising rising young star. Possessor of tremendous potential, the Missouri native will be expected to carry the load on the boards for the Gents Added weight should help him get the job done. No liability in the scoring column—he averaged 10 points a game last year—Dale figures his shooting is the weakest part of his game. As a competitor, Dale is a coaches' dream. Tall, rugged, and confident, "Bibber" figures to become quite a "horse" for the Gents these next two years.

JERRY DON CALLENS . . . . . Frosh Experience
Sophomore—Ht. 6'0"—Wt. 170—Age 21

A high school all-American at nearby Pleasant Hill, and an outstanding freshman performer, Jerry returns to the Gents after a year out of school. The big question, of course, for Jerry and the Gents will be how fast he can recover from the year lay-off. He brings a new wife and an improved attitude with him, and if he can shake the rust of inactivity early enough, he could figure prominently in Sigler's backcourt plans. One of the truly great Louisiana prep products, Jerry has the talents to excell in all departments of the game. He needs work and polish, but he knows it. That's the most encouraging part about Jerry's return.



DON CURTIS ENSLEY . . . . . Up From Frosh
Sophomore—Ht. 6'2"—Wt. 175—Age 19

A good, heady backcourt operator, Don is slated for a lot of action in his first varsity year. Coach Sigler rates him an excellent defensive player—which is probably the highest compliment Sigler could pay one of his players. A native of Davenport, Okla., Don played his high school basketball in Joplin, Missouri. He will be one of seven candidates battling for three backcourt starting spots, and is given a better than even chance of latching onto one despite his lack of experience.

RALPH RICHARD FERRARI . . . . Up From Frosh

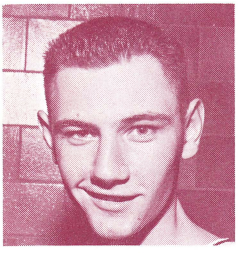
The oldest player on the squad and a pre-med student, Ralph is very serious about knocking off the rust of military service and general inactivity. Having to work almost twice as hard as his teammates to get in shape and regain his form, the Pennsylvanian finished his freshman campaign with a creditable record. A big boy with good speed and agility, Coach Sigler feels experience under fire will fully develop his great potential. His rugged size and determination figures to be a big asset when relief is needed where the "meat is being popped" under the boards.

THE VARSITY

JOHN ADAM LUKASIK . . . . . Up From Frosh
Sophomore—Ht. 6'3"—Wt. 165—Age 19



This youngster sat out much of the freshman campaign because of an ankle injury, however, the coaching staff feels John has the potential to be a big help in the backcourt. His ankle is still not as strong as it should be and may hamper him in the early going. John played his high school ball in New Jersey, and is a smooth ball-handler with a good shooting eye. With an abundance of good backcourt men on hand, Coach Sigler plans to bring John along slowly to give him every chance to get in good physical shape.

WILLARD WRAY MOORE . . . . . Up From Frosh

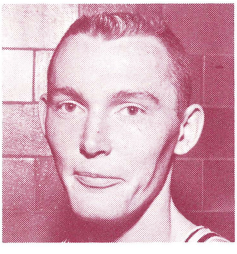
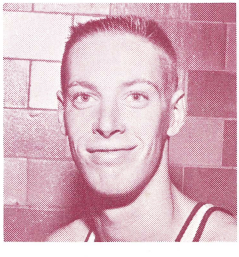
Of the six freshman promotees who will be with the varsity this year, this could be the boy to watch for immediate stardom. Willard led last year's yearlings in scoring, and is slated to see a lot of action in the backcourt for the Gents. A product of Tennessee prep schools, he possesses fine potential, a good attitude, and lots of hustle. Willard is also a smooth-working "quarterback" type of player so essential in Coach Sigler's system. Willard himself thinks his defensive play needs the most work. In military service before coming to Centenary, Willard led his service quintet in scoring in 1958, and was selected to the all-eastern service team in 1957 and 1958.

ROBERT RILEY WALLACE . . . . . Up From Frosh
Sophomore—Ht. 6'5"—Wt. 185—Age 19



Another outstanding performer with last year's outstanding yearling team who could pay dividends this year. Riley was the leading rebounder and second highest scorer among the freshmen, and Coach Sigler feels he will be able to help the front line in his first varsity year. Added weight and a good pair of hands should make him even better on the boards than last year. Riley played his high school basketball in Illinois, and has never played on a team with a losing record. The Gents would like nothing better than for him to be able to say that when he graduates from Centenary.

HARRY ANTHONY WUENNENBERG . Up From Frosh
Sophomore—Ht. 6'9"—Wt. 215—Age 21



The tallest man on the Centenary campus, Harry developed rapidly during his freshman year. He still needs lots of experience, but if he can improve as much this year as he did last year, he will be ready to take over as the team's big man next year. A native of St. Louis, Mo., Harry needs more confidence in his own ability and the polish that only experience will give him. Toward the end of the freshman slate, Harry had turned tiger under the boards and his shooting eye was beginning to come around.
